

MiniChem 3: Matter

Pure substances are characterized by specific physical properties. These properties can be either extensive or intensive. They also depend on the state in which the substance is found. Pure substances also possess intrinsic chemical properties.